City of Rowlett Responds to Recent Lawsuits Filed by Former Employees

ROWLETT, TEXAS—The City of Rowlett today filed formal responses requesting the dismissal of recent lawsuits filed by two former employees. Walker Bright PC, the law firm representing the City, filed the requests for dismissal on behalf of the City, stating that any claims of harassment, retaliation, wrongful discharge, financial mismanagement, or improper hiring are completely without merit.

One of the plaintiffs, Kimberly Wilson, was terminated on September 13, 2017, while the other, Brandi Bull, was terminated on October 6, 2017. Neither termination was the result of reasons stated in their lawsuits but had to do with specific issues related to each individual's job performance. Although the lawsuits allege a number of incidents that occurred over several years, the City immediately investigated, addressed and resolved each as they were reported. None of the claims asserted in the pleadings demonstrate a violation of any law including harassment, discrimination or the Whistleblower Act.
